

Joomla 1.5 tutorial finally available

Date: 02.09.2008 - 14:52

Category: IT, New Media & Software

Press release from: Systemtechnology Michael Hertig

"Don't be afraid of.. Joomla!" is the title of a new downloadable ebook about the free popular web content management system Joomla (formerly Mambo). There is a vast amount of modules and add-ons for Joomla, but hardly any documentation for beginners on how to set up a website from nil with the new 1.5 version.

This pdf tutorial by Timothy Walters explains on 230 pages with over 170 (!) screenshots step-by-step in 20 chapters issues like how to install Joomla, change templates, create sections and categories, add articles, banners and user login by using a popular news release website as an example.

The ebook can be downloaded for less than 10 Euro at the relaunched website ebooklet24 (ebooklet24.com). International payment is handled by ClickandBuy.

eBooklet24 is a project of Berlin-based Systemtechnology Michael Hertig, a company which runs several popular German websites like the lifestyle portal Cala Vivo (calavivo.com), eareadium audiobooks (eareadium.de) and the news and service website Ed Wise (edwise.info). New authors both for the ebooklet and the audiobook portal are invited to submit their works and take part in the generous royalty schemes.

Systemtechnology
Michael Hertig
Hohenzollerndamm 105
14199 Berlin
Tel: +4930.8973.1258
edwisepr@googlemail.com
edwise.info

You can find this press release here